Daniel's Great Period of "Two Thousand and Three Hundred Days," Discovered and Determined,

BY A CLERGYMAN OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.
"This is a remarkably pains-taking book, both in argument and research. It presents much matter for our consideration. It is written with great candour. * * * It is impossible to do justice to the Author's arguments by any fragmentary quotations. We should like to have cited the greater part of the five first chapters."—Quarterly Journal of Prophecy.

"This work on Daniel is very admirable. It embodies a great amount of information, ancient and modern, especially on the true nature of the Papacy, and its position in the prophetic scheme. It breathes a fine spirit, coupled with unflinching views of truth, and is a most valuable contribution to prophetic study."—The Bulwark.

Apostolical Succession Overthrown, and Evangelical Succession Established,

BY

A CLERGYMAN OF THE ESTABLISHED CHURCH.

"The Author proves that the Apostles, as such, had no successors; that the commission given to them, as Ministers of the Gospel, was totally distinct from the commission under which they exercised Apostolic authority; and that the radical error of Rome and Romanizers consists in claiming, not only the untransferable prerogatives of the Apostles, but even greater powers than the Apostles ever attempted to exercise. The argument is elaborated with much care, and the book deserves an attentive perusal."—Achill Missionary Herald.

"We recommend 'Apostolical Succession Overthrown, and Evangelical Succession Established,' as a judicious treatise on this important question."—Record.

"On a careful examination it will be found to possess no ordinary merit. * * * The Author adopts a line of argument rather unusual. * * * He sustains his argument with great clearness. * * *

We commend the volume to Ministers, as throwing much valuable information on a subject of absorbing interest, and one that lies at the basis of our contest with Popery and Puseyism."—Irish Presbyterian.

(Translated from the Greek.)

On the basis of the common English Version, with Notes.

"I am obliged to you for giving me an opportunity of examining a specimen of the new great Biblical enterprise in America, of which I had heard much previously. The impression made on my mind is that the undertaking is a valuable one, and that it seems to be in the hands of men of sound views, as far as can be estimated from a short specimen."—Extract of Letter from the Rev. G. Sidney Smith, D.D., Professor of Biblical Greek, Trinity College, Dublin.

Readings for a Bible Class on the Morning Prayer.

"It has not yet fallen to our lot to notice a work which commends itself to our favour more fully than the one which bears this modest title. Every page shows the writer a proficient in the study of the human heart, and what is more, in that of Christianity, as God's instrument for restoring its affections to Himself. * * * It is the reality that sparkles through its pages that most pleases us in this healthy volume. And there is a freshness as well as reality."—Paper for the Schoolmaster.
